ASK TV MAGAZINE

Q Please put me out of my misery. Christine Ebersole, who plays the delightful role of Kit on CBS' The Cavanaughs, had a brief role in ABC's One Life to Live. If my guess is right, what part did she play? If I am wrong, please tell me where I might have seen her in the recent past. — L.P.J., Dallas

A Your guess is exactly right. Ebersole played Maxie McDermont on One Life to Live in 1983-84, for which she won an Emmy for best supporting actress in a daytime drama. You also may have seen her as part of the 1981-82 Saturday Night Live troupe. Going even further back, Ebersole was Lilly Darnell on Ryan's Hope in 1980.

Q In the series The Fall Guy, who is the attractive blonde that is (or was) a regular on the show? My boyfriend is convinced that it is Teri Garr, or the girl who played Dr. Frankenstein's (Gene Wilder) girlfriend in Mel Brooks' Young Frankenstein. Also, was Frankenstein's monster in that movie played by Mel Brooks? — E.J. Sieb, Dallas

A Heather Thomas played stunt woman Jody Banks in The Fall Guy. Garr played the girl who stole Gene Wilder's heart in Young Frankenstein, but Peter Boyle played the monster.

Q Please tell me the name of the series Stacy Keach was in before Mike Hammer. — H. Burson, Athens

A Keach co-starred in the 1975 ABC series Caribe as Lt. Ben Logan.

Q Please help! No one seems to remember the name of the series in which Ron Leibman played during the mid-70s. It was a crime/drama and he was married to Linda Lavin (Alice) at the time. — J.L., Denison

A It was Kaz, a show Leibman co-created for Lorimar Productions. He played Martin Kazinski, a lawyer who earned his degree behind bars. It aired during the 1978-79 season on CBS.

Christine Ebersole

Q I would like to settle a friendly argument. Were Marilyn McCoo (Solid Gold) and Lou Rawls ever husband and wife? If so, are they still together? — J.C., Kaufman

A McCoo is married to singer Billy Davis Jr. Both were original members of the Fifth Dimension and, after 10 years with the group, established themselves as a popular nightclub and recording duo. She and Rawls were never married.

Q What are the chances of Adventures in Paradise, the 1960s series with Gardner McKay, being rerun? I just visited Papeete and would love to see it again via the series. — P.B., Boulder, Colo.

A You'll have to remember Papeete from your own snapshots. Paradise, on ABC from 1959 to 1962, was shot in black and white and, except for a few episodes the second season, McKay never skippered the schooner Tiki off the 20th Century-Fox back lot. The series has been rerun before, but there's no indication it will show up again, locally or on cable, in the near future.

'The Two Mrs. Grenvilles' is little more than a hollow diversion

ONE HAD TO BE RICH to survive names like these.

Bratsie Bleeker, Babette Van Degan, Esme Bland, Tucky Bainbridge — names dripping with decadence and oozing an opulence fit for the tastes of, shall we say, an Artie Deco.

Meanwhile, Billy Bob Veblen remains a hick up in Maplewood, Kansas. Once he had the hand of the plain-named Ursula Mertens. But alas — and alack, too, if one insists — our erstwhile Ursula transformed herself into the actress Ann Arden, leaving Billy Bob to face a life of fry cookery when he returned home from fighting World War II. Ann managed to latch onto Billy Grenville Junior — yes, that Billy Grenville Junior. Some called her a golddigger; others twirped, "N.O.C.D.," rich-talk for "Not Our Class, Dahling."

Shall we care a whit for any of these people? No, we shall not. But for your conspicuous consumption, they are on display in NBC's The Two Mrs. Grenvilles (Sunday and Monday at 8 p.m. on Channel 5).

My, how toney we're getting. We even have original music from Marvin Hamlisch, Mr. Big Screen Score himself. Perhaps he drank 10 cups of espresso before attacking the piano with such frenzied abandon. His music tends to devour our little drama, wrestling it to the filthy ground and getting everything and everybody all mussed up. Oh, how the score soars when Ann, in her Frederick's of Hollywood push-up, shortie nightie, drops a Johnnie Walker Red bottle at the feet of the stuporous Billy. "Make love to that, Junior!" she taunts.

OUR STORY is adapted from the bestseller by Dominick Dunne. "A luscious novel," said Cosmopolitan. High praise indeed for a book based on the "infamous" (my, how we love that word) Anne Woodward society murder of 1955.

We begin with a tight shot of a decayed Ann Grenville, applying makeup with an assist from a three-way mirror. Ann is played by Ann-Margret, who is being directed by the accomplished John Erman. They have worked together before, these two, in Who Will Love My Children? and A Streetcar Named Desire. Both times Ann-Margret was nominated for an Emmy. Cruelly, she lost.

The narrator of Grenvilles, society chronicler Basil Plante (Peter Eyre), awaits with low-downs in hand.

"What she can't disguise is what those eyes have seen," he says of Ann. "And she Claudette Colbert (standing) co-stars with Stephen Collins and Ann-Margret in the two-part miniseries, The Two Mrs. Grenvilles.

knows it."

We're soon 20 years in arrears, back to 1944. Billy (Stephen Collins) and Bratsie (John Rubinstein) saunter into a bar in El Morocco.

"What're you drinking?" asks Bratsie. "What're you pouring?" rejoins Billy.

We've been suitably informed that these guys are cool.

Ann is dancing with a droll, older Argentinian, but he's history when a transfixed Billy locks his bedroom eyes on her. In bed, Ann makes a learned observation. "You're too big a boy to be called Junior," she giggles.

All that's left is to meet mummy Alice Grenville (Claudette Colbert). The legendary Colbert, 83, is taking on her first screen role in 25 years. Let it be said that she looks stunning and contributes a more than formidable performance.

Alice and Ann fail to get on famously. Otherwise we'd have no good reason to continue. But Billy pays his mother no mind, marries the commoner and goes off to war while his bride has a baby boy. Returning home, he declares, "I don't think at this moment there is anybody in the world happier than me."

This means that everything will begin going terribly wrong following a word from our sponsor.

ANN IMMEDIATELY takes on the airs of a high society pill and Bratsie is mysteriously murdered in a scene that makes little sense. "From that moment, the light went out of his eyes," says narrator Basil, referring to Billy. This is Billy's cue to drink like a pig and commence an affair with Esme Bland (Toria Fuller). At the end of Part 1, he runs into Billy Bob Veblen (Robert Sherman), who says that Ursula Mertens must have plumb forgot to get a divorce when she left him. Swell the music, freeze the frame.

Our second act is top-heavy with histrionics. Billy and Ann pound away at each other's sensibilities. Something's gotta give and does. Billy is left nude in a pool of blood and Ann finds herself clutching a smoking, double-barreled shotgun. But it's not as open-and-shut as it seems. Ann cops an alibi and the rich rally to protect her in order to protect themselves. Or as Alice Grenville puts it, "I don't want the filthy laundry of your marriage to be seen by everyone."

We're treated to some first cabin emoting by Ann-Margret and the steady, heady acting of Colbert. Sam Wanamaker shines, too, in the role of a sarcastic district attorney in charge of a grand jury hearing.

Throughout, narrator Basil Plante is determined to contribute his increasingly banal observations. We're supposed to share his utter fascination for the sordid lifestyles of these rich and famous. But The Two Mrs. Grenvilles amounts to little more, really, than a trifling, rather hollow diversion. It fancies itself as meaningful, intriguing and oh-so arty. It's not enough of any of these, but Colbert and Ann-Margret never let on. Their performances remain rich in the best sense of the word.

Davis makes a comeback from drugs

By Gary Deeb

SHOW BUSINESS in the 1980s is crammed full of people who used to be dope addicts and now are pitifully desperate to gain publicity by telling anybody who'll listen about their conversion to clean health. There even are a number of entertainers who deliberately exaggerate the extent of their past drug woes in order to grab more space in the papers and magazines.

But every so often, you encounter a Hollywood personality who has gone straight — and who has a genuinely inspirational story to tell. That's the situation with Clifton Davis, the co-star of the NBC comedy series Amen (Saturdays, 8:30 p.m., Channel 5). His tale is worth telling.

"Very few people knew how bad off I was," Davis told me. "But a lot of people in this business would say, 'Clifton Davis? It's all gone to his nose, brother.' And they were right. By the time I almost overdosed on Christmas of 1980, I had blown all of my money on cocaine. I mean, I'm talkin' a lot of money."

Davis, now 41, became a coke freak just as his comedy series That's My Mama was getting canceled by ABC. He spent the next four years shelling out prodigious amounts of cash for the drug, and his reputation in the industry became both stale and rotten.

"The success I enjoyed on That's My Mama was so stimulating, so exciting that I lost track of reality," he said. "I totally forgot about what was important in life. I started grabbing hold of tangibles instead of intangibles. I was getting high all the time. I just thank God that He gave me another chance."

"With the tremendous support of my mother and the rest of my family, I turned it around — after nearly dying. I dropped out of Hollywood and out of show business for about 5½ years. I went back to college, did a bachelor of arts degree in theology, then went on to graduate school and did a master of divinity degree."

"When that was completed, I got the call to become the assistant pastor at this church in Loma Linda, Calif., about 60 miles from Hollywood. And at that same time, I believe God decided that He had more work for me; NBC hired me to play a minister on Amen. I'm just blown away by the coincidence of it. I think there was a divine executive producer involved."

DAVIS BEGAN his assistant pastor's duties at the church almost simultaneously with his comeback on Amen. Nevertheless, few people in his congregation hold his showbiz existence against him.

"Some of the people at the church looked at me funny at first, until they realized that I was sincere about my commitment to Christ and to the church," he said. "And I backed up my commitment by waiving my salary as a minister; that's about $21,000 a year."

"Another interesting thing about my church is that it's predominantly white. I'm the first black minister that they've had on staff in their history. Some people thought I might find that difficult. But this is one of the most cosmopolitan and loving congregations I've ever seen — black or white. They accept me and they know I'm sincere about my devotion to God."

A Tony Award-winner for his singing and acting talents in the early 1970s, Davis also is a best-selling songwriter. He wrote Here Comes the Sunshine for Diana Ross and the Supremes and the superhit Never Can Say Goodbye for Michael Jackson.

"Yeah, I was tryin' to break up with a young lady and I couldn't figure out how to tell her," Davis said. "So I wrote Never Can Say Goodbye and that enabled me to say goodbye to her. That song has been recorded by more than 100 different artists, but the version by Michael and the Jacksons is definitive. He was just 13 years old at the time — such a talented young boy. It was so great to work with him."

On Amen, Davis goes toe-to-toe with Sherman Hemsley, who portrays another of his trademark irascible characters. The two characters mix like oil and water, but Davis enjoys the contrast.

"Sherman is so talented and such a professional," he said. "I wasn't that crazy about The Jeffersons — sorry, Sherman — but I always knew he was an outstanding actor. Now, however, having worked with him on Amen, I realize that his talent goes even deeper than I thought."

Millions of viewers this season are seeing Davis for the first time since That's My Mama left the air in the mid-'70s, and most of them comment on either how skinny he used to be or how beefed-up he now appears to be.

"Well, when I quit drugs, I also quit smoking," he explained, "and food tastes so good now. Seriously, I've promised myself that I'll lose some weight for the next season of Amen. But if you knew how much I invested in really good restaurants to put this weight on, you'd understand why I'm gonna keep it for awhile longer."

GOING BALD?

Hair Actually Grows . . .

PICTURES TAKEN PRIVATELY TO SHOW RESULTS

G. W. SMITH

Consultant of Hair and Scalp Clinics, Says:
"True, we cannot grow hair on a bald head. But if your hair is short, fine, weak or stunted, don't wait until you are bald and it is too late. Come in now for a consultation. There is no obligation to find out if you can have a healthy head of hair again," if we can be of no help, there will be no charge for the consultation.

FIRST QUALITY SOLID OAK LEADED GLASS DOORS DIRECT FROM THE FACTORY FOR 50% OF THE PRICE YOU PAY AT RETAIL DISTRIBUTORS.

These doors are not fir, not pine, not ash and not veneered. They are the very best solid oak doors money can buy. We have been the largest wooden decorative door distributor in Austin for 5 years. We did it by manufacturing a superior product and marketing that product to the consumer through our Austin Factory Outlet without the usual middleman mark-ups of 100% and more.

THESE ARE NOT CHEAP IMPORTS;
ALL DOORS MADE IN U.S.A.

ANGELA

GIFTED READER & ADVISOR

ASTROLOGER

GIVES COMPLETE READINGS WITHOUT ASKING QUESTIONS
PRICE WITHIN REACH OF ALL!!

You've seen me on T.V. and in the paper, now consult me in person. If you are worried, troubled or in doubt let me reveal the answers to you. A true medium is born, not made. I am different from all others because I not only read your life history but also help you out of your troubles. For instance, what good would it do you simply to be told you had an enemy or rival in your path unless you were told how to overcome him? It does you no good to be told your problems. I am able to point out the road to success and happiness. I warn gravely, suggest wisely, and explain fully on all matters of life!! I can change evil, negative influences around you into good and positive ones. I can influence others with my thinking. Thoughts have wings!!

ATTENTION EMPLOYERS OF UNDOCUMENTED ALIENS!

The New Immigration Law will begin to penalize employers who hire illegal aliens. But if your business depends to a large extent on illegal aliens, you should not have to lose them. If you have employees who qualify under the amnesty provision of the New Law, you should begin to take steps to protect your business investment. Take one further step in your investment and make certain that your eligible employees consult, without delay, with an experienced and competent attorney in immigration law.

OVER 700 BLOCKS AND 1300 HEADS IN STOCK

WE NOW HAVE A COMPLETE SELECTION OF OIL PANS, TIMING COVERS, HARMONIC BALANCERS AND FLYWHEELS IN STOCK

PHILIP WUNTCH/Film Critic

There's something for everyone in this week's movie selections

IT'S AN ECLECTIC week, with selections ranging all the way from Star Wars and King Kong to Days of Heaven.

Among the choices:

YANKS (Tuesday, 11:30 p.m., Channel 39) — Released to an indifferent public in 1979, this has acquired a devoted coterie of followers through the years. It must be admired for breaking every rule for box-office popularity; it dares to be a gentle, episodic love story with an English countryside setting. The film tells of a group of American soldiers during World War II who stay in an English village prior to being shipped out to continental Europe. Richard Gere has one of his few nice-guy roles as a sensitive cook; he, Vanessa Redgrave and William Devane are more than fine. American-born Lisa Eichhorn plays Gere's British love interest; she is lovely, but why is she always in a snit about something? This is a warm, dreamy movie; and it probably will be hampered by commercial breaks. Notice the genuinely romantic musical score. You don't hear them that way too often anymore.

DAYS OF HEAVEN (Wednesday, 7 p.m., Channel 33) — This starkly beautiful film has been a favorite of repertory cinema since 1978. The tense romantic triangle involves Richard Gere, Brooke Adams and Sam Shepard, but the most touching relationship in the film is between itinerant worker Gere and his loyal, gutsy younger sister, played by Linda Manz. Manz's haunting narration is both delightful and heartbreaking, and the film is one of the most visually stunning of its era. It has the quality of a Thomas Hardy novel transplanted to American soil — in this case, the Texas Panhandle of 1918. Gere and Adams play essentially dishonest people, but they maintain your sympathy throughout. Painstakingly directed by Terence Malick. What ever happened to Malick, anyway? No one seems to have heard from him since the release of this film. For that matter, what ever happened to Manz? And why didn't Adams become a major star? The questions multiply.

STAR WARS (Saturday, 7:30 p.m., Channel 4) — With the release of Star Wars in 1977, the era of special effects was with us. The charm of this all-time money-maker was that importance was paid to characterization as well as to visuals. Wide-eyed Luke Skywalker, clumsily courageous Han Solo, determined Princess Leia, loyal Chewbacca, prim C3PO and dithering

Brooke Adams and Richard Gere in Days of Heaven.

R2D2 have the clarity of character that distinguishes the best of the Disney animated features. In a sense, this adventure epic resembles a live-action version of a Disney cartoon; it has the same innocence, freshness and goodwill. Funniest scene: The desperado's bar, where poor Chewbacca can't get a drink. Worst performance: Carrie Fisher as Princess Leia. Fisher mistakes arrogance for determination.

Among others: Paleface (Sunday, 1 p.m., Channel 27) — Predictable but fun Bob Hope western, famous for Buttons and Bows. Surprisingly deft comic performance by Jane Russell. ... King Kong (Sunday, 5 p.m., Channel 21) — The original, still the best. Great fun, both intentional and not. Nice dinosaurs, too. ... Paper Moon (Sunday, 11:15 p.m., Channel 4) — The O'Neals, meaning Ryan and Tatum, at their easiest to take. Better yet is Madeline Kahn as a comically venal carnival dancer. ... Full of Life (Monday night, 3 a.m., Channel 11) — Almost forgotten film, worthy of rediscovery. Seriocomic look at pregnancy, with customary dandy performance by Judy Holliday. And was Richard Conte a better actor than he was often credited with being? ... Invaders from Mars (Tuesday, 10:15 p.m., Channel 27) — The original version, full of oddball touches that really work. Both thoughtful and scary. ... Sands of Iwo Jima (Wednesday, 11:35 p.m., Channel 8) — John Wayne blustering up a storm, and doing it very convincingly. Chuck Norris and even Clint Eastwood may have taken lessons.

And more: Sorry, Wrong Number (Thursday, midnight, Channel 21) — Barbara Stanwyck does hysterics better than anyone else, and that includes Bette Davis and Joan Crawford. ... Quo Vadis? (Friday, 11:30 p.m., Channel 39) — Grandiose, overlong but sometimes a lot of fun. Robert Taylor is pure lumber, but Deborah Kerr is quite nice, while Leo Genn and Peter Ustinov are superb. Lots of mean-looking lions. ... Murder on the Orient Express (Friday, 11:35 p.m., Channel 8) — An abundance of stars, none showier than Lauren Bacall. But it doesn't transfer well to television. ... House of Wax (Saturday, 11 a.m., Channel 33) — Exalted horror show doesn't entirely live up to expectations. Still, some lively touches. Watch for Charles Bronson in a brief but pivotal role. ... Stagcoach (Saturday, 9 p.m., Channel 21) — The original classic version, noteworthy now for its atmospheric black and white cinematography. It made John Wayne a star and should have done the same for Claire Trevor. ... Freaks (Saturday, midnight, Channel 13) — Horror at its classiest, set in a carnival side show. As a tale of vengeance, this one will give you shivers. ... The Exorcist (Saturday night, 1:55 p.m., Channel 8) — Artfully done, but too much. Not for the faint of heart.

SUPPORT CRIME STOPPERS!

And help put the lock on crime.

Crime Stoppers gives you the opportunity to anonymously provide information about felony crimes. If your information leads to the arrest and grand jury indictment of a felony suspect, you'll receive a cash reward. As a result of Crime Stoppers, over 9300 arrests have been made in the Dallas area and almost 700 offenses have been cleared. More than $2,000,000 worth of stolen property and narcotics have been recovered. And rewards totaling $50,000 have been paid to the informers who have made those statistics possible.

You can help, too, by supporting Crime Stoppers with your cash donation and by becoming a Crime Stoppers member.

'Tortellis' Jean Kasem: no dumb blonde

By Jerry Buck

Associated Press

LOS ANGELES — Jean Kasem says that despite rather convincing appearances to the contrary on NBC's Cheers and new spinoff The Tortellis, her character, Loretta, is no stereotypical dumb blonde.

Kasem and Dan Hedaya took their characters, Loretta and Nick Tortelli, from Cheers to their own series airing Wednesdays at 8:30 p.m. on Channel 5.

"It's very hard to say Loretta's not a dumb blonde," said Kasem. "She has many of the shades of the dumb blonde. But she's really just naive and vulnerable. I say she's the Jiminy Cricket of the show. She always sees the bright side of life.

"She's not intimidating to women because they know she's not going to steal their husbands, the way Jayne Mansfield would. Loretta's very popular with women."

NICK TORTELLI appeared on Cheers as the unscrupulous ex-husband of barmaid Carla, played by Rhea Perlman. Loretta played his ditzzy new wife. Hedaya and Kasem auditioned together for the roles strictly by chance.

"It was a cattle call and we were the last ones to read," Kasem said. "We'd never met before. I thought it was my worst audition."

She said the writers and producers in the room broke up when the two walked into the room, before they ever opened their mouths. She went home and cried, thinking she had lost the job, but her mother and husband told her the show had already called and offered her the part.

In the new series, Nick and Loretta move to Las Vegas where Loretta pursues a career as a showgirl. Nick, promising to mend his evil ways, hopes to strike it rich as a TV repairman. They live with Loretta's sister, played by Carlene Watkins.

The Tortellis are television's newest odd couple. Kasem, at 5-foot-10½, towers over Hedaya. Loretta is sweet and cheery. Nick is grouchy and usually up to no good. Nick is a notorious womanizer. Loretta has faith in him.

"We move in with my sister, but Nick doesn't say he's bringing his teen-age son Anthony, who has a 16-year-old bride," said Kasem. "My sister's divorced and has a 5-year-old who's going on 30."

She said Nick's character will show "more shades."

"It's not as on Cheers when the door flies open and Nick blows in and makes a threat," she said. "We have an opportunity to show that we can also walk and talk. I think Las Vegas is a good setting for a comedy. Usually, you see it as the setting for the Mafia and a crime story."

Cliff and Norm from Cheers showed up in last week's episode. They arrived for a gambling trip, then lost all their money in the slot machines at the airport.

And Kasem said she is co-writing a script in which the Tortellis nearly win the California Lottery.

"It's based on the real incident when the ball landed in the million-dollar slot then jumped into the $10,000 slot," she said. "That sounded so Tortelli."

Kasem was born in New Hampshire, but grew up mostly on Guam, where her father was a government employee. She set out to be a television newswoman, but was told she was too emotional when she read the news. She tried her hand at soft features, but that didn't work either, and she ended up in an acting workshop.

She is married to radio and television personality Casey Kasem, who is the host of American Top 40. She said their meeting was like something out of a Doris Day movie.

"I was working as a messenger and was coming out of his agent's office as he was coming in with his arms loaded with Christmas packages," she said. "We ran into each other. It was love at first sight and we got married a year later. We've been married now for seven years."

Not only is Jean Kasem not dumb, she isn't a blonde.

She said her mother was an Iroquois Indian.

"My hair was black until I changed to blonde to get more roles," she said.
